

Brass Roots Trio
Short Press Release

With virtuosic showpieces, decadent tangos and symphonic sounds that melt into sultry jazz, Brass Roots Trio delivers a captivating performance full of passion, imagination and charisma.

Since 2005 this trio of trumpet, horn and piano has enthralled audiences with an amazing range of timbres and tones. With a relaxed stage presence, they establish an immediate connection with their audiences...and it's always a well-received surprise when the horn player puts down his instrument and sings an operatic aria or spiritual!

Rosetta Senkus Bacon, Travis Heath and Douglas Lundeen have demonstrated their prodigious talents across the globe with engagements at the Kennedy Center in Washington, Avery Fisher and Carnegie Hall in NY, Symphony Hall in Boston, the Chicago Brass Festival, the Banff Centre in Canada, the Guinness Jazz Festival in Ireland, Cultural Centers in Taiwan, Japan, Switzerland, Spain, Germany, and Lithuania, and with major symphony orchestras in the US, England and Latin America.

Exhilarating performances and imaginative programming have established Brass Roots Trio as one of the most compelling ensembles of the 21st century.
